5.2 Adding Medical Aid Schemes Settings

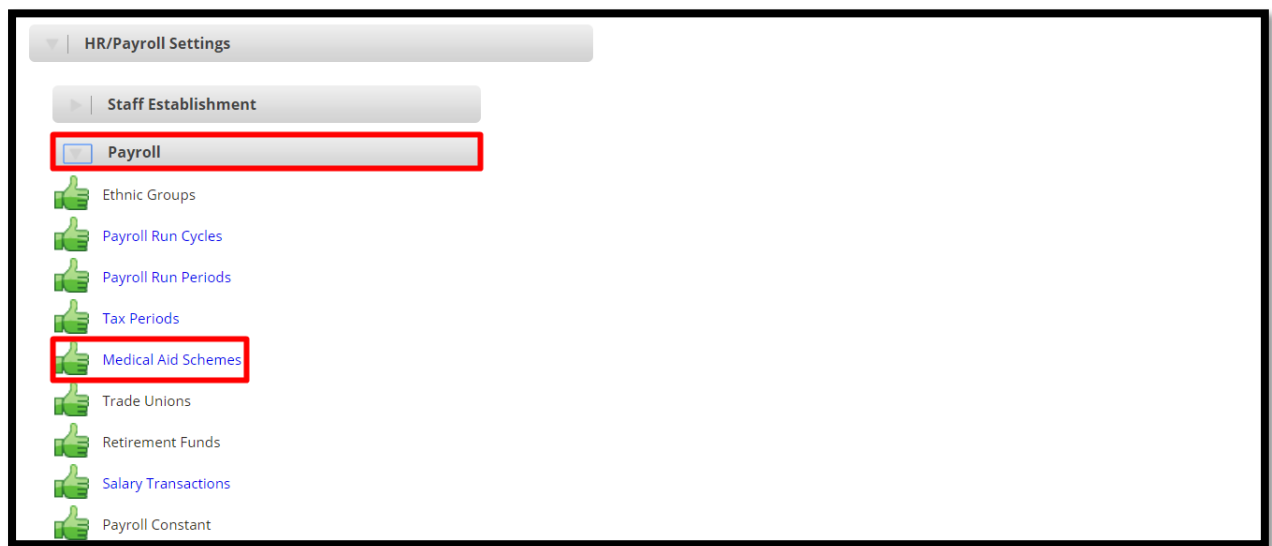

In this section we add different medical aid schemes that will be linked to an employee for a period. Payroll is date driven, it's important to capture the correct start date for changes to records. From when a change should apply. The system will always default the End date to 31/12/9999. It is important to always populate the correct start date, in order to keep track of when changes in benefits occurred.

If a new start date is captured the system will update the previous record/s end date to a day before the new start date to ensure that all changes to the medical aid is kept. An employee can only have one medical aid linked to it for a period and to see the history of which period the medical aid was active in the system

Follow the below menu path:

6.2 Capture Retirement Funds

There are different types of retirement funds that employee can be linked to. Such as Pension fund, Provident fund and Retirement annuity.

The employer's contribution to a retirement fund (pension fund, provident fund or retirement annuity fund) is a fringe benefit taxed in the employee's hands. Employees own contributions to a retirement fund plus the employer contributions to a retirement fund, are tax deductible up to certain limits, in employees' hands. The growth and income within a fund while the employees are a member of the fund is tax free. Tax is only payable when the employees access the funds.

Validation on retirement funds exists. The employer can only contribute to one; either Pension, Provident or Retirement funds, not all three.

6.2.1 Pension tab

All supporting documents must be presented with terminating Employee Linked Benefits.

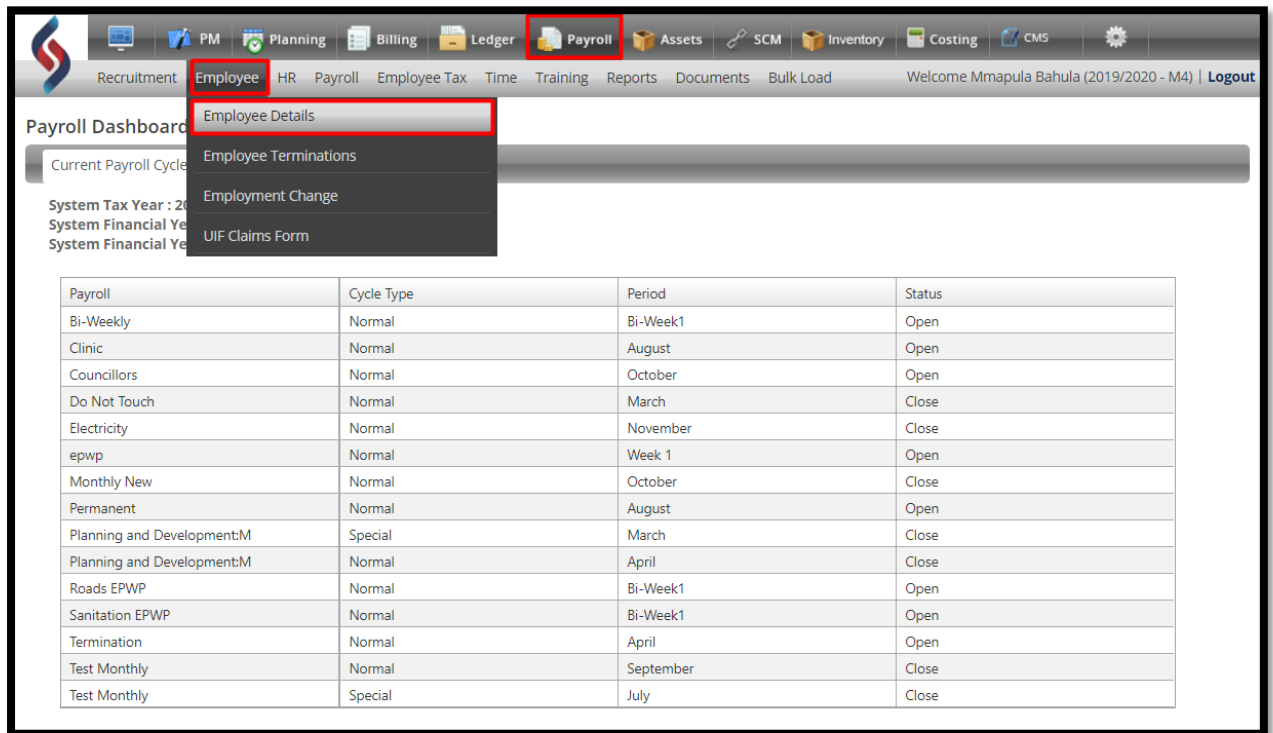

Specific Outcomes:

Outcomes:

- Terminate Employee Linked Benefit Plan

In this section, should an employee want to terminate one of his benefits such as medical aid fund with a fund provider for reasons like resignation/retirement or termination, the payroll officer can go into the system and put an end date to the benefit. Termination process will update the end date of the benefits to the termination date. The user can change the end date of e.g. a Medical aid plan if the employees move between funds or stop the medical aid benefit while still employed. Therefore, an employee will no longer have that benefit linked to him. Then a new record can be created for the new benefit.
